

Cancellation Policy

In the event of the cancellation of your Samaritan's Purse Canada Mission Teams trip, the policy of Samaritan's Purse Canada is as follows:

All support and donations received are non-refundable once tax receipts have been issued. Under Canadian law, refunds cannot be given for any donations received by a charitable organization.

Airline tickets already purchased in your name by Samaritan's Purse Canada prior to trip cancellation are non-refundable. However, your ticket may be applied to a future trip, depending on the life-span of the ticket and the flight destinations of the original airline. Most tickets are open for a 12-month period. A change fee may be charged by the airline. If the destination is changed, there may also be additional costs depending on the new routing. In these circumstances, you should check with the airline regarding their policies.

Trip participants who cannot be re-scheduled on alternative trips prior to the expiration of the airline ticket, held in their name by Samaritan's Purse Canada, are responsible for the cost of another airline ticket should they want to participate in another trip.

In the event that airline tickets have not been purchased by Samaritan's Purse Canada in your name prior to the date of your trip cancellation, an amount equal to the donations already received on your behalf will be kept on account with Samaritan's Purse Canada for use in a future Samaritan's Purse Mission Teams trip, if applicable. Applicant placement on an alternative Samaritan's Purse Canada trip will be dependent on trip availability. Accordingly, an alternative Samaritan's Purse Canada trip cannot be guaranteed.

Trip participants may waive the right to participate in any or all alternative trips with the understanding that all donations received and tickets purchased on their behalf are completely non-refundable. In circumstances like this, these funds will be used for project activity likely in the region of your original destination.

In the event that donations exceeding your trip costs are raised, the excess will be put towards other Samaritan's Purse Canada Mission Teams initiatives/projects.
